Tokyo Pack is a comprehensive trade show for packing, exhibiting packing materials and machines for all industrial processes, including purchasing, production, distribution, sales, disposal and collection. Held every other year since 1966, it is known as one of Japan's largest international packing-industry shows. The 2012 show brought together 600 companies representing the packing industry worldwide, attracting over 170,000 visitors.

At Tokyo Pack 2014 Kito will feature its latest air-powered products, the VacuumHand Flex and Air Balancer C, designed for workplace efficiency first.

Ergonomic designs make the VacuumHand Flex 50 line especially easy to operate. With the touch of a single finger it locks, lifts and releases cargo. This ease of use has made the line a favorite among many customers. The latest model features the SRC system, in which a button switches the vacuum pump on and off. The company will offer visitors hands-on demonstrations.

Kito offers high-quality products and services designed for safety, efficiency and social benefit from the customer's standpoint on every materials-handling floor in the world.
