Kito to Show at Live Entertainment & Event Expo

Industrial hoist and crane maker Kito Corporation (Head office: Nakakoma-gun, Yamanashi Prefecture; CEO: Yoshio Kito) will exhibit at the second Live Entertainment & Event Expo July 8-10 at Makuhari Messe, Tokyo. The Expo is one of Japan's biggest trade shows, featuring comprehensive exhibits of equipment and services for concerts, stage performance and events. This year, 400 companies plan to participate, roughly twice as many as last year. Kito will deliver the highest value to customers with products and solutions that best meet the needs of the entertainment market.

Introducing the Kito exhibit

Kito will show its TNER theatrical hoist, specialized for hoisting and installing lighting and audio equipment. The primary feature of the theatrical hoist is that it hangs upside-down relative to standard hoists, to lift trusses mounted with lighting and audio equipment, reducing the need to install hoists at high points and other risky work. The TNER is smaller than the previous model, reducing dead space. Its black case is inconspicuous from the audience and does not detract from performance.

Kito will show other branded products as well, including manual chain hoists, lever hoists and polyester slings.

Company profile

Since its founding in 1932, market leader Kito furnishes safe, high-quality products and services to customers in a broad range of industries. Customers in Japan and abroad appreciate and rely on Kito chain hoists, lever hoists, rope hoists, cranes and other products.
